Abstract

Business Continuity Management provides understanding, developing and implementing business and technical processes within the organization, giving confidence in business-to-business and business-to-customer dealings. An important aspect of business continuity management is represented by the Information Security Management System. The main objective of the ISMS is to avoid or mitigate the disruptions to the business activities due to major failures of information system and to protect the critical processes in order to achieve the restoration of the company's ability to perform the needed services.

Index terms: business continuity management, information security, disaster recovery
